"dazzling moments"
 "Greta Van Fleet aim to bust down old walls."

RollingStone

"marks an evolution to a more expansive approach, with progressive, mystical and psychedelic elements."

AP Associated Press

"one of the best straight-up rock albums to come down the pike in many moons"

VARIETY

"[My Way, Soon] has the hallmarks of the classic rock leanings that Greta Van Fleet has been known for since their 2017 emergence."

SPIN

"The rolling riffs and paintstripper vocals of 'Built by Nations' speak to the basic tenets of rock criticism, identifying whether a song rocks or sucks. This one rocks."

FT FINANCIAL TIMES

THE GREATEST GUITAR ALBUMS OF THE 2010S

"With little else in the way of pedals and effects, the timeless sound of gutsy riffs and lofty solos played through cranked valve amplifiers is what characterises much of the album."

"[Greta Van Fleet is] the strongest piece of evidence that the elusive spirit of 1970s rock and roll [is] back."

VANITY FAIR

"GVF are evolving here, Joshua Kiszka an astounding talent whose sky-scraping voice conjures... Robert Plant gatecrashing Valhalla. He and his bandmates have grasped the flaming torch of '70s hard-rock pomp"

MOJO

"There's something winning about the members' earnest intentions, as well as their unwavering commitment to them. Their sincere love for the history of rock shows in the depth of their knowledge about it."
